And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

We have had our troubles before in getting the paper to all of our subscribers on time, but last week we had something new happen. From the way the phones stayed busy Thursday and Friday of last week we suspect we explained to everyone what happened, but in case we missed you this is what the trouble was.

It seems that the mail truck that carries the mail in and out of here runs twice a day. It carries the mail to Abilene in the evening and brings our mail back the next morning. Last week the truck picked up our papers going out of town Wednesday evening and took them to Abilene and then on the way back through the next morning it picked up all of our local papers and carried them North.

Postmaster Perry Sparks located them in Guthrie where the driver lives and had them brought back, but by then it was too late to make either the city routes or the rural routes.

It comes as a shock when you get a call Thursday morning telling you that the postoffice does not have your papers after you have put them over there before seven the night before.

About all we can say is that we are sorry for the inconvenience that this mix-up caused our subscribers and that we will try to see that it does not happen again — something else may happen but we should not have this trouble again.

Today is the day for the annual Riding Club Rodeo to open with street parade, grand entry and all of the events that go to make rodeoing a popular attraction. Also, today will be marked by the second annual Rodeo Sidewalk Sale sponsored by the Retail Trade Committee of the BCD.

We see that the Texas Legislature is considering raising state college tuition from the present $50 a semester to $100 as part of its effort to come up with the money needed to operate our state. Even though we are faced with sending three children through college in the not too distant future we have to go along with this idea.

To us there are two good arguments in favor of this proposal. The first is the fact that with increasing costs of education this would still leave the students paying only a small fraction of the cost. And the second reason is that it would help close a little of the gap between state and private college tuition.

If our system of private colleges is to exist, and our state will be in deep trouble if they don't, the two systems must be brought closer together in cost.

We see that our Senior Senator Ralph Yarborough has come out in opposition to such an increase on the basis that it will deprive too many of an education. We fail to see that his argument will stand up too well since there are any number of loans and grants for the moderate and lower-income families.

With probably half or more of our college students taking cars to school we find it hard to believe that most of them cannot afford to pay $100 a semester tuition.

Senator Yarborough says in one of his newsletters that the estimated cost of a four year education is over $6000. We fail to see how $400 over this same period is really going to deprive a great number of an education.

With the cry for gun control and registration we would hope that gun owners and sportsmen will get together and fight for a workable bill and get it passed soon. While we do not know if such a bill would really help solve our problems or not, we can see the hand-writing on the wall.

The public is going to demand such legislation and we think that sportsmen could much better spend their time and efforts designing a workable bill than just fighting every effort in that direction.

As a gun owner we can see no real problem in having our guns registered — no more so than having our car registered.

Again we say that we are not too sure this will really solve our country's problems but maybe at least sportsmen and gun owners would stop being blamed everytime something happens.

First Screwworm Case Spotted In W. Texas

Central West Texas chalked up its first screwworm case of the year last Wednesday in Tom Green County.

The case was on the Percy Turner Ranch near Water Valley in the northwest part of the county.

That area of the county is presently being "hotspotted" with sterile flies to halt further infestations, say officials at the Mission Screwworm Lab. "Hotspotting" consists of dropping 10,000 sterile flies each week for a three-week period.

According to officials, 32 more positive cases have been confirmed in Texas in the past few days, bringing the year's total to 397 for the state.

Officials urge all producers especially those in areas receiving lots of rain, to check their herds carefully for wounds. collect worm samples and send them to the Mission Lab for identification. Preventive measures like spraying herds regularly and treating all wounds should be followed.

Dr. M. E. Meadows, veterinarian in charge of field operations, says that "the situation this year has the potential of being the worst, casewise, since the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program began." Hot, humid conditions following rain can contribute to quick build-ups of cases if they are not reported early so that sterile fly treatment can be started.

Omar Burleson, M. C. — Growing up on a farm we had bees. Having been told about the duties of the queen, the workers and the drones, they were interesting to watch. (If in that day there had been television, probably the bees would not have been noticed). But it was fascinating to learn that when the old queen had expired and her usefulness served, the new queen left the hive, followed by the workers who surrounded her on the Mesquite limb where she chose to light.

At this point, the drones, too, had served their purpose and either died or were killed by the workers. When the new queen was installed on her throne in a new hive, the workers immediately began to gather the materials for new comb and to dress up the new palace with all needed fixtures.

We learned that the worker bees would sting and were willing to give their life afterwards to protect their queen and her castle. The drones could be caught with the hand without injury. They carried no stinger and did not leave the hive except for a stroll outside for fresh air.

Our society is something like this. It has one criterion, namely, that the individual have a willingness to work. Our economic system is not designed for the "drones", for the shiftless and for the fellow who wants to lie abed in the morning while others are out on the job.

The great marvel of our Free Enterprise System in America is that it virtually guarantees a reasonable annual income to about everyone, provided he or she is willingly to work. There are, of course, exceptions. In the past we have not done all which should have been done to give opportunity for training more people for better jobs. There are those who, for some misfortune or other, are unable to obtain and hold a decent job but no country in history has been so successful in creating opportunities as has this Country.

Yet there are some people who want to redesign our system so that it gives the "drones" full equality with the "workers."

In February of 1967, the National Commission on Technology, Automation and Economic Progress, produced a 210-page report endorsing a guaranteed minimum annual wage for every American. Should the Commission's report endorsing a guaranteed minimum annual wage for every American. Should the Commission's report ever be the businessmen, and successful ones at that, would consider the cost and where the money must come from. Estimates of the cost have ranged from $2 billion to $20 billion a year. This is the difference between 2 cents and 20 cents — quite a spread in estimates.

It is being proved over and over again that there are those who, knowing they are Certainly there are many who hold unpleasant jobs simply because they know that working is the only way to support themselves and their families. Unless these working people felt it morally wrong not to work and felt it an insult not to do their part in society by holding down jobs

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, July 2, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Joe Wayne Carter.

Defective equipment contributes to many accidents.

AUSTIN. — This is a crucial week for the special session of the Legislature which, as expected, neared the halfway mark without coming to grips with any major assignments.

House members were due to face up to Gov. John Connally's "small bottle" liquor-by-the-drink bill early in the week, followed closely by a vote on a $2,500,000,000 budget for 1969 state governmental operations.

The mini-bottle liquor bill was voted out of the House State Affairs Committee, but only after one of the most confusing bouts of legislative, in-fighting history.

Two "wets" held critical positions. They voted for the bill on the second day of the committee debate after opposing it throughout the preceding day.

First, Rep. James Clark of Dallas captured the spotlight when he switched his vote from pro to con during the initial day's debates. Clark had offered amendments to the bill which were defeated by the committee.

Then, late in the afternoon, Clark started voting with the "drys" saying the legislation was an impossible "hodge-podge" of legal gobbledegook.

But the next morning Clark voted for the bill, as did another "wet" opponent, Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio.

Both men indicated they had received assurances from the authors of the bill that their amendments would be given favorable consideration on the floor of the House if they would just help get the bill out of committee.

Clark and Johnson both went liquor-by-the-jigger legislation instead of liquor in two ounce mini-bottles as provided in the governor's bill. But they said they would go alone with the little bottles if they could secure certain other changes in the law.

They want at least three provisions added:

1. An amendment to outlaw the practice of legislators representing clients in cases before the Texas Liquor Control Board.

2. A provision doubling the license fees for persons selling liquor and beer.

3. A provision requiring complete financial disclosure by holders of beer and liquor licenses. This is aimed at stopping the practice of juke box operators making loans to tavern operators at high interest rates.

With these assurances from the bill's authors, Clark and Johnson would seem to be in a strong position to make their demands be met but margin on the House floor appears very close, and the Senate even closer.

In case of failure of the governor's tax proposals, tied largely to a raise in the sales tax rate to three per cent with 75 per cent of the new income refunded to incorporated cities on basis of their population — lawmakers may turn to a straight increase in the sales tax without refund provisions. Both the governor's bill ($127, 200,000 a year total taxes) and the straight sales tax raise ($150,000,000 annual yield) were reviewed by the House Revenue and Tax Committee and sent to sub-committee.

House Speaker Ben Barnes has indicated he would like to have his representatives face all three major issues of the session — taxes, budget and liquor-by-the-drink — by the end of the week. That would leave less than two weeks for Senate action and final reconciliation of differences in conference committees.

STATE CONVENTIONS — Two Texans will go to the national political conventions as favorite son candidates for president — Governor Connally for the Democrats and Sen. John Tower for the Republicans.

Both won their honors overwhelmingly in state party conventions.

Both also are being mentioned prominently as prospective candidates for vice presidential nomination, although they deny they seek or expect places on the national ticket.

Connally and the moderate-conservatives proved they still are in firm control of the State Democratic party machinery when they crushed liberal opponents 2,835 to 499 on the favorite son resolution at their state meeting in Dallas.

All 104 Texas delegates to the Democratic convention in Chicago, August 26, are bound to support Connally under the unit rule until he releases them — which is expected to be early — in favor of Vice President Hubert Humphrey. It is doubtful there are any supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy on the delegation.

Republicans shouted four-to-one approval of the Tower favorite son resolution, and instructed their 56 delegates to Miami Beach for the August 5-8 national GOP convention to back him "until released after consultation" among the group.

While most of the Republican delegation is believed to favor Richard Nixon for the presidential nomination, an estimated 12 to 16 prefer California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Reagan boosters, catching the majority by surprise at the Corpus Christi convention, forced through a resolution commending the actor-turned-governor on his administration and his "constructive influence on national affairs," and urging him to take a more active role in national GOP politics. There were no backers of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller among the Texas delegates.

Texas Democratic leaders pooled in Dallas acknowledged a race between Nixon and Humphrey would be too close for comfort.

TUITION HIKE PUSHED — Top state college executives and governing board members are pushing hard for doubling the $50 per semester tuition fee at colleges and universities.

Committee of State College and "University" Governing Boards and Council of Presidents of State Colleges and Universities by resolution and public statements have jointly endorsed the increase. They claim revenue is urgently needed to close the $21,400,000 gap between higher education requirements in seven areas (such as teaching salaries and library needs) and funds foreseeable.

Tuition boost to $100 per semester would bring in $20, 000,000 a year in new revenue. Liberal legislators already are tuning up for a fight against the raise. Tuitions have remained unchanged since 1957.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED — Lt. Gov. Preston Smith appointed Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells chairman of the Senate Water and Conservative Committee, succeeding the late Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas.

Governor Connally named 10 legislators to represent Texas at the annual legislative work conference on southern regional education here July 11-12. They are Sens. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, Jack Hightower of Vernon, Bill Moore of Bryan and J. P. Word of Meridian. Reps. A. C. Atwood of Edinburg, Bill Barton of Borger, Don Cavness of Austin, David Crews of Conroe, Bill Finck of San Antonio and James Slider of Naples.

COURTS SPEAK — State Supreme Court set July 10 for review of a labor union's appeal from an injunction against picketing construction near Orange.

High Court refused to order Regulatory Loan Commissioner Francis S. Miskell to issue Beneficial Finance Company license for its 61st Texas office.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin intervened to defend an 89-year-old Texas law against demonstrations which block a private business' activities. Challenge of law was filed in federal court by students who have been picketing an Austin service station.

Court of Criminal Appeals refused to rehear the appeal of a Houston attorney who was convicted of encouraging an illiterate client to lie in court testimony. Attorney got six-year prison sentence.

STATE PAY — Members of the Attorney General's staff are meticulously studying a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision which requires states to pay the federal minimum wage at schools and hospitals. State of Texas currently is paying the minimum wage, but requirements for paying overtime could call for $14, 000,000 more in state expenditure.

DEATH PENALTY — Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston has asked Governor Connally to open the special session of the Legislature for consideration of a bill that would do away with the death penalty.

Agent Warns of Possible Sorghum Midge Damage In Area Crop

Grain sorghum planted over an extended period this season has made conditions ideal for development of damaging sorghum midge populations, County Agent Kirby Clayton says.

For the first time, significantly damaging midge populations have been observed in the Rio Grande Valley area. Midge damage, up until June 7, has been reported as far north as Maverick, Uvalde, Bexar, Wilson and Live Oak Counties. Just this week, damage has been confirmed even further north in Hill County. The Central Blacklands have also been under heavy siege by the insects, he says.

Later-blooming grain sorghum will likely be damaged more than any other. General dates have been set up for grain sorghum which has not bloomed and could be significantly damaged.

This critical period of potential midge damage begins about June 5th in the counties south of Travis, June 10 to 20 in the counties south and surrounding Brazos, June 25 in the counties south of Hill and Aug. 1 on the High Plains. Reduction in grain yields in late-blooming fields has ranged from 20 to 100 percent, according to Clayton.

To control the midge it is necessary to realize that damage occurs at the time of spikelet pollination (bloom) and once pollination has begun in sorghum fields, the producer must determine when the population has reached economic levels.

The life-cycle of the sorghum midge is one which is relative hard for the producer to break. The midge will attack grain sorghum, sweet sorghum, Johnson grass, sudangrass, broomcorn, Sorghum alum and certain wild or uncultivated grasses.

The small, orange-colored, fragile-looking gnat or fly of th adult is about 1-12 inch long. The adult females lay their eggs in the floret or seed husk of the host plant at the time of blooming. Early planted sorghum, combined with volunteer sorghum, serve as developing grounds for the midge buildups.

The early populations are not economically important as they are not damaging enough. Early, uniform planting is the best means of avoiding heavy midge damage. Although the early grain sorghum infestations are not damaging, they can lead to more problems as later plantings are made, Clayton stresses.

Midge damage closely resembles blasted or blighted sorghum heads resulting from disease, infertility, drought, high temperatures at booting time and a lack of plant nutrients in the soil.

Best control of midge damage is still considered to be early planting. Where damaging midge populations do develop before blooming, chemicals must be relied on.

Recommended insecticides for control of the pest and additional comments are given in MP-339, Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Grain and Forage Crops. Proper timing for application should be applied when 90 percent of the heads are out of the boot. A second application may be advised, he says.

For further information, Clayton urges producers to contact his office in Anson.

Needles and pins and thread all stay together where you can find them if you make a miniature pin cushion out of a spool of thread. Just stick a cotton cosmetic ball in the hole in one end of the spool, and keep pins and a needle there.

"Whatsoever Things"

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Two incidents concerning PLAYBOY magazine have come across my desk lately. I think they are worth passing along because they open the door to truth. And we all need that.

The first concerned a former "Playmate Of The Month" for PLAYBOY, one Miss Joey Gibson. She was the playmate for the month of June, 1967. She was recently placed on probation for 90 days on her conviction for prostitution. Municipal Judge Andrew Weisz of Beverly Hills ordered Miss Gibson, 21, whose real name is Nancy Cole, not to engage in those activities which led to her arrest. Miss Gibson was living in Santa Monica at the time.

The other incident concerning PLAYBOY happened at Springfield, Oregon. A municipal court jury found Diane Johnson, 19, guilty of trying to smuggle a PLAYBOY pinup to her husband in the Springfield jail. Authorities said the pinup was pasted inside the cover of a Bible.

We think there is a word which needs to be said here concerning the PLAYBOY approach to life and that of the Bible. PLAYBOY, and its followers, pride themselves on being honest and facing life like it really is. They play a no-holds-barred game.

Well, for those in the know, PLAYBOY couldn't hold a light to the Bible when it comes to facing life like it is. Certainly if there was ever a book that presented the view of life and man exactly and completely and fully as it is, the Book our mothers read is it. You will find no hiding of the facts or dodging of the issues in that great Book. It, indeed, "tells it as it is."

Go back into the early part of the book and you will find the story of a king who murdered a soldier in his army in order to have the soldier's wife as his own. While he did not commit the deed himself, he was responsible for it. His desire for her was such that he committed murder to have her. Telling it like it is? That's it, my friend. That's facing life like it is. The man's name was David. Ever heard of him?

Or take the man named Hosea. Married a prostitute. She proved unfaithful to him. Stepped out on him. Left him as the husband of a harlot.

And then there is the fellow called Paul who tells us of some women who "exchanged natural relations for unnatural, and the men likewise gave up natural relations with women and were consumed with passion for one another . . ."

You see, the Book of Books has in it some of the same stuff PLAYBOY has. It tells it like it is. But it not only speaks about the depravity of man and his lust and desire for the flesh. It also tells about his craving for some meaning and purpose in life. It tells about his finding what real life is by finding his Creator. PLAYBOY leaves this out.

The difference between the Bible and PLAYBOY is that the Bible tells the whole truth. And, my friend, that is all the difference in the world. — FIVE STAR FEATURES and released the following morning.

While it is sterile males that are expected to curb weevil reproduction in the test, weevils of both sexes are being released. It is more economical to rear and sterilize both male and female than to go through the tedious task of separating them. Davich believes about 250 sterile males per acre are needed to prevent population increases in the field being used, so 500 weevils per acre are being released under the assumption that half will be males.

Frequent releases are required because all presently known sterilization methods, while completely effective in rendering sterility, reduce both sex drive and life expectancy of the insects in the process.

According to Dr. Davich research has shown the life expectancy of the sterile weevils being used this year to be an average of about seven days. But their effective mating period is only about three and a half days, hence the two-a-week releases.

Success in the test would leave this one major hurdle to be cleared before the new control technique could be widely used for eventual elimination of boll weevils as cotton's most costly insect.

A new sterilization process, in the first stages of study, is showing promise. It involves a combination of radiation and the use of a chemo-sterilant, both applied in smaller doses than when either is used separately. First indications are that this method may do far less damage to the insects.

Cotton Pickin's

ROLLING PLAINS COTTON GROWERS INC.

Last week Rolling Plains farmers saw the start of the world's first large-scale field test of boll weevil control by sterile male release, a long-time dream in almost every cotton producing country.

Under the direction of Dr. Ted Davich, head of U. S. D. A's Boll Weevil Research

Laboratory at State College, Mississippi, about 45,000 sterilized weevils were "planted" on 90 acres of the Bill Glenn farm in Dickens County. Two releases of about the same number were made and this two-a-week schedule will be followed throughout the season unless it becomes obvious that the test is failing to prove effective.

"We are out to prove a principle," Davich said, "and as long as it appears we have a chance for success, we'll continue the releases."

The Dickens county site on the Western edge of the Rolling Plains was chosen for two reasons. First, the intensive Diapause Control Program carried out in that area for the past four years has reduced weevil populations to extremely low levels, making it necessary to release fewer sterilized weevils. Second, the Glenn farm has a relative degree of isolation from other cotton fields, making possible a more accurate evaluation of results.

The Diapause program, jointly financed by Government and producers under the auspices of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., has reduced weevil numbers in a nine-county control zone by about 99%.

Neinda Philosopher Takes On A Slightly Serious Note In Comparing U. S. With Some Others

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One is either serious or hunting for some garden fresh vegetables this week, we can't tell which. Dear Editor:

After I'd shaken the dirt off a newspaper a neighbor had used to wrap up some fresh vegetables he brought over to me out of his garden yesterday, proving I guess that we're living in a sick society or why wouldn't he have washed the greens first, I went out on the front porch and started reading.

The article that won top honors with me was about a man who left this country a while back in a stolen boat because, he said, "America has never done anything for me," and went to Cuba. Last week he floated back to this country on a rubber raft, saying "Cuba never did anything for me either." He added that he believed he preferred jail in the United States to being in the open in Cuba.

Actually of course he gave up too soon.

Why didn't he try France, where the minimum wage is 40 cents an hour and demonstrations, even by students, have just been banned?

From there he could have sampled Russia, where apartment rent is free to all three families living in the same room and you can denounce the government any time you don't mind being shot.

Then of course there's India, free of air pollution because they travel on foot and pull their own plows and the average income is $73 a year. They have no over-weight problems either.

I started to mention China, but I don't have the heart.

I could go on listing the other countries on earth, well actually I couldn't because I don't know the names of a tenth of them, I don't suppose anybody, not even college students, can sit down and name all the 200-odd countries, but I guess I've made my point.

America still has a long way to go, the same as you and me, but I doubt if Cuba has out-distanced us, or Russia or China or France or North Viet Nam.

Why don't you improve the health of this country and send me my copy of The Herald each week wrapped around a batch of fresh vegetables, cleaned of course.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Quieting the Neighbor's Dog

One man's dog may be another man's nuisance. If you are disturbed by your neighbor's dog (or dogs), and if complaints don't help, you might consider another possibility: a court order to abate the nuisance.

What does the law say in such cases? By and large, it is sympathetic to the person who is subjected to an excessive amount of canine clamor. "Dogs in a neighbor's yard may murder sleep," observed one judge, "and destroy the reasonable enjoyment of a home."

Thus, a suburban family won an injunction against the owner of a German shepherd dog whose furious barking awakened them regularly at 4 o'clock in the morning. The court said the defendant would have to either reduce the noise or get rid of the dog.

Suppose you go to court only after having tolerated the noise for some time. Your neighbor might then argue that you have "accepted" the situation by your acquiescence.

But chances are that the court would not penalize you for being patient. Your complaint wouldn't be turned down merely because you held back for a reasonable time, in the hope of finding some solution short of the courthouse.

What if the neighbor was already living there—with his dog—before you moved in? That, too, is not enough grounds to bar your complaint. His being there first does not give him a permanent right-to-be-noisy, regardless of the feelings of newcomers to the street.

On the other hand, you won't get far in court with a complaint that reflects your own unusual sensitivity rather than the dog's unusual behavior. The law of nuisance is a law of moderation—tailored to people of average dispositions, not to those with jumpy nerves or trigger tempers.

In one case a disgruntled home owner, in court about a neighbor's dogs, was countered by several witnesses for the defense. Although these witnesses lived as close to the dogs as he did, not one of them found the barking the least bit annoying.

The court thereupon refused to mix in. The judge ruled that, whatever one particular individual might think, barking—in moderation—is a lawful ingredient of neighborhood life.

THE HAMLIN HERALD

Generations

Isn't it grand when the whole family reunites on holidays or on anniversaries! How good to see grandparents and great grandparents and the new crop of babies. Seeing them all together gives you a feeling of continuity, and a sense of oneness with all creation.

It gives you, also, a glimpse of God's plan in the life cycle. When you see the off-spring of the patriarch grandfather, you marvel at the great legacy he is bequeathing the world. All the children that have issued from him are in themselves a great contribution to the world of mankind.

There is marvelous potential in all these spirits. The great things they will do thrill your heart when you contemplate them.

This legacy of lives and spirit can be strengthened, sweetened and nourished by the church. We invite you to take your family to church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Wearing cotton may be one way to keep well! Medical researchers have discovered that viruses do not live as long on cotton as they do on other fabrics. While a virus may live for three months on some fabrics, it will only last about three days on cotton. If the cotton fabric is treated with a wash and wear chemical, the virus only lives one day.

Each year, according to National Safety Council statistics, more than 1,000 persons in the United States are killed in tractor accidents.

The Council points out that six out of 10 of these fatalities are the result of tractor overruns.

T. David McFarland, assistant manager of the Council's Farm Department, says there are two basic ways in which this problem can be attacked:

1) Reduce the number of tractor upsets and other types of tractor accidents by educating operators.

2) Reduce the incidence of death and serious injury when overruns do occur by providing operators with overturn protection, such as protective frames or crush-resistant cabs.

Considerable evidence is available, McFarland says, to show that protective frames—similar to the roll bars in race cars—and crush-resistant cabs have the potential to sharply reduce the severity of injuries to operators involved in tractor overruns.

The Council, McFarland says, recommends the use of a safety belt along with the protective frame.

"Protective frames for agriculture tractors are now available on some recent production models, and all tractor makers are expected to offer them soon," he adds.

The operator, McFarland says, can do much to prevent an overturn or any other kind of tractor accident by observing the following basic rules:

- Read and be familiar with the instruction manuals for your equipment.

- Maintain your equipment.
- Keep yourself in good physical and mental condition by getting enough rest, dressing comfortably, working at a pace within your physical abilities, and taking mid-morning and mid-afternoon rest breaks.

- Postpone tractor work if you are sick, taking strong medicines or are upset.

- Avoid operating on steep slopes, and stay clear of ditches, embankments and the like.

- Drive slowly on rough surfaces and slopes, or when visibility is poor—such as when moving in high grass.

- Watch out for hidden obstacles and holes.

- Set the tractor wheels as wide apart as is practical for the job being done.

- Reduce speed when turning or near ditches.

- Shift to a lower gear when going up or down a grade.

- If the tractor gets stuck, try to back out. If you are not successful, get help to pull the tractor out.

- Engage the clutch slowly when starting with a heavy load.

- Drive extra cautiously when pulling a heavy rolling load.

- Before going on the road, make certain the brakes are adequate to stop your rig at road speeds.

- When on the road, display the Slow-Moving Vehicle Emblem. It is becoming universally recognized as designating a vehicle, such as a farm rig, traveling at less than 25 miles an hour.

- Avoid dropping a wheel off on a soft shoulder or in the ditch.

- Throttle back if your load is unstable, bulky or sways.

- Keep children off and away from farm machinery.

- Don't hook a chain or cable around the axle for a hard pull. Instead, use the drawbar set between 12 and 18 inches from the ground—the lower the better.

- Add weight on the rear of the tractor for heavy front end loads, such as a manure loader.

- Put weight on the tractor's front for jobs where the drawbar supports much of the load.

- Don't use "boy-sized" tractors for "man-sized" jobs.

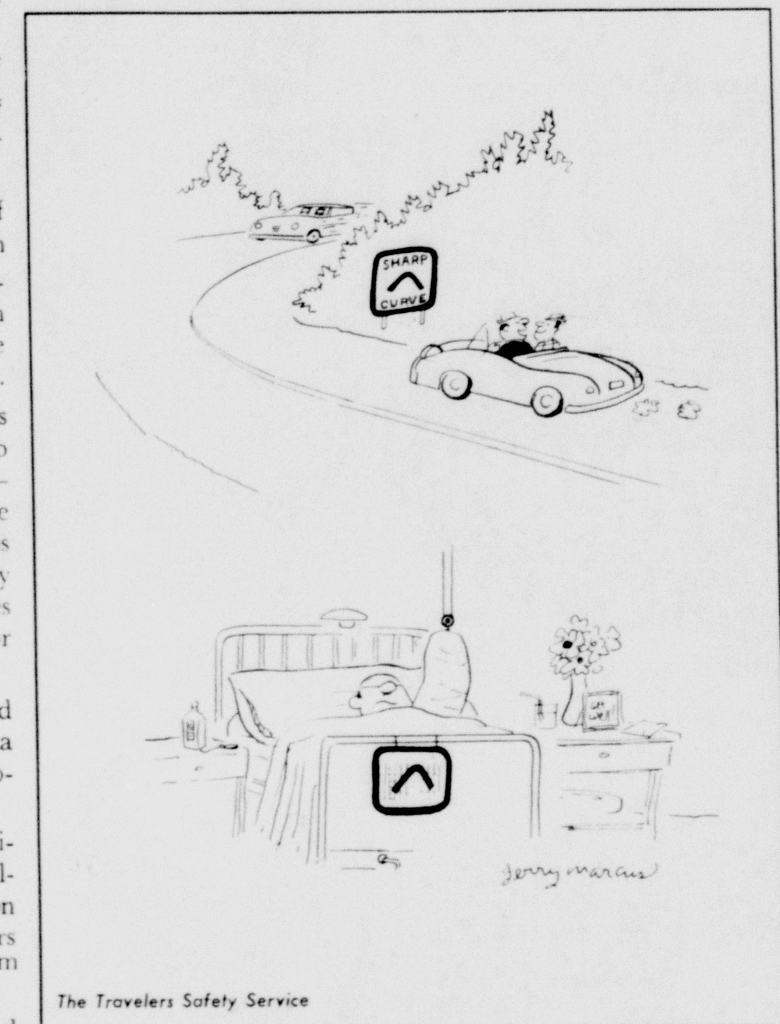

- Keep guards and shields in place, and shut off the power before unlogging or servicing machinery.

- Refuel only cool engines, and then only when you're not smoking.

- Mount both a fire extinguisher and a first aid kit on each of your tractors.

Steps Outlined By Agent for Clean Storing of Grain

Take a few steps now to insure clean stored grain, County Extension Agent reminds. Bins should be prepared about six weeks ahead of harvest.

First step is to clean out all old grain. Spray all bins with a residual insecticide — use a 2 1/2 percent solution of methoxychlor or a 2 percent solution of premium grade malathion.

Clayton stresses the importance of checking for rodents and birds in all bins. He suggests screening all possible bird entry sites and plugging all rodent passages. Other structural checks should include water leaks and grain leaks.

Be sure all materials used to close doors and windows are on hand and in good condition. Don't wait until the grain starts coming in to hunt these pieces, Clayton cautions. Remember, new concrete

Punishing the Past

Suppose you discover that, in your community, there is no law against smashing street lights. And suppose you go out and smash a dozen or two. And suppose that the city fathers, in sudden alarm, pass a law forbidding such behavior.

Could you then be punished, under the new law, for the lights you have already smashed?

No—not even if you knew all along that you were doing something wrong. Punishment-by-hindsight is forbidden in Article One of the Constitution, which says that "no ex post facto law shall be passed." No act, legal when committed, may be made punishable afterward by pinning a criminal label on it.

This applies not only to creating new crimes but also to increasing the penalty on existing crimes. For example:

A state legislature decreed that convicted murderers, while awaiting execution, should be kept in solitary confinement. But a court ruled that the extra penalty, the solitary confinement, could not be imposed upon any murderer whose crime had already been committed.

On the other hand, a law easing the punishment may constitutionally apply to the past. Thus, lawmakers could reduce the death penalty to life imprisonment, and apply the change to murders committed while the death penalty was still on the books.

Moreover, the ex post facto rule applies to criminal penalties only. It does not protect you from assorted unpleasant consequences, other than criminal penalties, that may be based on your past misconduct.

In one case, an ex-convict who had served 10 years in jail wanted to practice medicine. But, according to a state law, no one who had been convicted of a felony could do so.

"This law is unconstitutional," the man charged in a court test. "True, I committed a felony. But I have already served my sentence for that. To prevent me now from practicing medicine would be to add an extra punishment, and that is ex post facto."

However, the court upheld the law, saying the legislature was not imposing a punishment but merely setting standards for the practice of medicine. The judge said:

"The physician is one whose relations to life and health are most intimate. Character is as important a qualification as knowledge. If a state may require good character as a condition of the practice of medicine, it may rightfully determine what shall be the evidences of that character."

Improper Use Causes Pesticide Accidents, Clayton

Pesticide accidents don't just happen as they are caused by people who do not use chemicals properly, says Kirby Clayton, County Agricultural Agent.

Don't let a pesticide accident mar the pleasure you get from spring gardening activities, he suggests. Just remember these safety precautions:

Identify your pest carefully. You may choose the wrong chemical and be dissatisfied with the results.

Read the pesticide label properly and thoroughly.

Follow all directions and precautions exactly, including the wearing of respirators and protective clothing when recommended.

Keep unused pesticide containers under lock and key, and away from children and pets.

Avoid breathing pesticide mist or vapors.

Don't spill liquid concentrates on your skin.

Wash your hands immediately after using any pesticides.
